A SUCCESSFUL TEST OF AN AERO PLANE IN ROME.

European Dispatches Give the World's Record to M. de Lagrange, a Frenchman—The Title Is Disputed by the Wrights.

ROME, May 29.—DeLagrange, the French aeronaut, beat the world's aeroplane record to-day, flying 12,750 meters (nearly eight miles), and remaining in the air fifteen minutes and twenty-six seconds.

PARIS, May 30.—Wright, one of the Wright brothers, the American aeronauts, was informed to-day that Leon

THE AEROPLANE IN WHICH DELAGRANGE FLEW NEARLY EIGHT MILES IN ROME.

DeLagrange, the French aeronaut, had succeeded in flying 12,750 meters or 7,917 miles at Rome. He manifested considerable interest in this performance and said:

"We are not worried. We already have tripled the distance made by M. DeLagrange this morning. Our confidence in our leadership rests upon the essential difference between our machine and those used in Europe. We have a practical aeroplane capable of flying in the wind."

Mr. Wright then proceeded to explain that the problem of equilibrium had been solved by himself and his brother by the application of melioid principle, which enabled them by a twist of the surface of the planes to right their machine against the wind. On the other hand, he said, all the European machines thus far had stationary planes. This, Mr. Wright intimated, was the great secret of his success.

GHENT, BELGIUM, May 30.—Henry Farman, the English aeronaut, covered 1,241 meters, or 4,083 feet, to-day in his aeroplane with two men on board. His companion was M. Archdeacon. The test was performed in a dead calm.

By this performance Mr. Farman wins the bet made with M. Charron in March of this year. M. Charron held that an aeroplane would not be constructed within a year capable of carrying two persons, one of them not weighing less than 132 pounds, a distance of 1,000 meters. The odds were two to one against Farman. He wins $1,200.

ONE HUNDRED IN A BALLOON RACE.

The Contest Will Be the Greatest in the History of England.

LONDON, May 30.—The greatest balloon race in the history of the British aeronautics was started this afternoon from Hurlingham. It is held in connection with the International Aeronautic federation which has just had its fourth annual conference here. The winning point is about thirty miles distant being the Old Currier Inn at Burchett Green, three miles west of Maidenhead.

The balloons are decked with the flags of their respective countries, and carrying the aggregate of upward of 100 passengers, were successfully sent off in a general breeze from the northeast. Several of the cars carry women passengers. The nations represented are France, Germany, Great Britain, Belgium and Switzerland.

THE BIGGEST BALLOON TO FLY.

St. Louis Will See the "Chicago" Sent Up Some Time Next Week.

DANVILLE, ILL., May 30.—The Chicago said to be the largest balloon in the world, which is 150 feet high when inflated, will make its first ascent from St. Louis next week, where it will be taken to Springfield, Ill., Monday. Colonel Coey, owner of the balloon, made this decision when informed to-day that it was impracticable to send the balloon up here because of a suitable place for its inflation near a big gas main could not be obtained. Coey, Captain Bumbaugh, the pilot, and G. W. Cannon of this place will go up on the initial trip.

YOUNG FOR THE CIRCUIT BENCH

The Nomination in the Seventh District Sought by a Hamilton Republican.

Seth M. Young of Hamilton has filed petitions and will make the race for the Republican nomination for circuit judge in the Seventh judicial circuit. The circuit includes the counties of Clay, Ray, Livingston, Caldwell and Daviess, and has been so strongly Democratic that it has not always been possible to find a Republican willing to make the race.

Judge Frank H. Trimble of Clay county, who is now judge of the circuit by appointment of Governor Folk, will be the Democratic nominee and will go into the contest with a good record as a legislator and judge. Mr. Young is a cousin of M. A. Low of Kansas, who was active in Missouri Republican politics when he lived at Gallatin thirty years ago. Young is a good lawyer but a man of few words, fewer perhaps than his more widely known kinsman. He was one of the strong men in the Missouri legislature when he was a member several years ago.

SHOWING HORSES AT ELM RIDGE

Harness Events This Afternoon and a Derby for Stock Yards Runners.

Admirers of fine horses are assembled at Elm Ridge this afternoon to witness the open air show given by the Elm Ridge club. Roadsters, runabout horses, trotters, speedway paces, high school horses, tandem and saddle horses are being shown and a Derby for runners is to come last. The entries to the Derby are from the stock yards. There were twelve entries at 10 o'clock this morning.

C. G. Bridgeford, J. M. Grant and W. H. Grant are the judges. Every horse in the show is owned in Kansas City.

The Safety of His Little Girl a New Yorker's First Thought.

NEW YORK, May 30.—"I am willing to die. I saved my children and that was all I cared about."

With those words, faintly uttered in the presence of his weeping wife and daughter, for the latter of whom he had sacrificed his life, William Jardine, superintendent of the banking house of Kidder, Peabody & Co., of this city, died last night in the Norwegian hospital in Brooklyn.

Mr. Jardine was walking last Sunday evening with his 8-year-old daughter, Dorothy, and his 14-year-old niece, Alice, in Shore Drive park, South Brooklyn, when he saw plunging toward him a motor car, of which the chauffeur had seemingly lost control. Mr. Jardine could have jumped out of the way of the machine, but he stopped long enough to push his daughter and niece to safety.

He was struck and crushed. He was taken first to his home in Brooklyn and then to the hospital. His leg was amputated Thursday. He did not rally from the shock.

The car which caused Jardine's death is owned by Harry B. Gue of Bay Ridge, vice president of the Dow Wire Company. The chauffeur, George Finn, had taken the machine out without Mr. Gue's consent. He was arrested. He will be arraigned to-day charged with homicide.

PEACE FOR 'SHEP'S' OLD AGE.

In a Court Contest With a Monkey Judge Kyle Sided With the Dog.

The troubles of Jocko and Shep were aired in police court this morning. Shep is a venerable dog who has won distinction in the service of Henry Otter of 4202 Garfield avenue. Jocko is a monkey with depraved tendencies. He belongs to William Gillaspie, a neighbor of Otter. Between the dog and monkey there is a feud of long standing.

"Two weeks ago the monkey came into my yard and found Shep asleep," Otter declared, "and he bit the dog until it almost died. He came back the other day and did it again. I think too much of old Shep to have anybody's varmints annoy him."

"Jocko ain't a varmint," Gillaspie interrupted. "He's almost a human being, he's so intelligent."

"You have a wolf and two parrots and white rats and guinea pigs," Otter replied. "What if I have? They are all pets," Gillaspie declared.

"We can't find any city ordinance about monkeys," Judge Kyle said. "So we'll have to make some. Gillaspie, keep your monkey chained up. Otter, shoot the ape next time he appears in your yard. We haven't anything against a monkey particularly, but, as between a Simian and an honorable old shepherd dog our sympathies are with the dog."

AGE BARS A WOULD-BE SENATOR.

George Wagner of Jefferson City Can't Run for Office Under the Wisc.

A message received to-day at Republican headquarters says William Voshall of Osage county has filed as a candidate for state senator in the Twenty-seventh district.

Voshall probably will be elected as he made a good record in the lower house and the district is close with a large German vote. George Wagner of Jefferson City, who had petitioned and was ready to make the race, found that, although he is very close to the 30 years required by the constitution, the next legislature will be sworn in before his 30th birthday anniversary. A senator must be 30 years old before the day of taking office.

SPENDING THE DAY OUT OF TOWN

The Trains to Excelsior Springs and Leavenworth Were Crowded.

Decoration day with Sunday following, making a double holiday, gave many persons an opportunity to take an out-of-town vacation and outgoing trains this morning were crowded. Fishing rods and minnow buckets were contained in the baggage of many of the travelers.

Extra coaches were carried on all the Excelsior Springs trains last night and this morning. The trains and trolley cars to Leavenworth carried many persons to the national cemetery at Fort Leavenworth. Many small picnic parties went to nearby streams and lakes.

THE KANSAS CITY OF 1948.

Greatest of Inland Cities, Says L. C. Murray, If Its Growth Is Maintained.

The personal talk and speeches at the dinner of the Kansas City Real Estate exchange in the grill room of the Sexton hotel last night may be summed up briefly: There are no menacing clouds in the financial horizon of the Great West; no conditions justifying doubt as to the future; no apparent reason why prosperity should not now be an established fact.

Logan C. Murray of Louisville, Ky., nearly forty years a banker and having in mind the experience gained through five panics, said that of all the cities he had visited in recent months none other held so few signs of the recent disturbance as Kansas City; in fact, it was difficult to realize that the city had passed through a period of stress. He predicted that if Kansas City maintained the growth of the last eighteen years within forty years it would be the largest inland city in America, with the possible exception of Chicago.

George H. Tefft, ex-president, and J. A. Runyan, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, told how the committee on publicity had spent nearly $15,000 of the $20,000 raised a year ago to advertise Kansas City. "Factory Facts," a book giving salient information about Kansas City as an industrial center, is in its third edition. The advertising campaign undertaken by the committee brought requests for "Factory Facts" from every state in the United States and nearly every country in the world, and the end is not yet. School teachers in the New England states are using "Factory Facts" as a text book.

I. W. ZIMMERMAN A SUICIDE

Despondency and Fear of Paralysis Caused Death of Ex-Kansas City.

GRAND JUNCTION, COL., May 30.—I. W. Zimmerman, 53 years old, formerly a banker at Oberlin, Kas., committed suicide in a room at the Western hotel some time last night by shooting himself with a revolver. Twelve years ago Zimmerman was loan examiner for the Globe Investment company of Boston for Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma, with headquarters in Kansas City. He left a letter explaining his act and asked that among others, Miles F. Zimmerman of the live stock exchange building, Kansas City, be notified. His act was due to despondency over the death of his wife and the fear of another stroke of paralysis.

Mrs. I. W. Zimmerman, the wife of a Kansas City real estate dealer, was found hanging to a small rope in the cellar of her home, 3720 East Ninth street, August 9, 1901. She had been an invalid for several years, and for about three weeks before she committed suicide her mind had been affected.

A GIFT FROM THE CORN KING.

Northwestern University Receives $150,000 to Build a Gymnasium.

CHICAGO, May 30.—A gift of $150,000 for a gymnasium building at Northwestern university was made last night by James A. Patten, "king" of the corn pit in the Chicago board of trade. The announcement was made by President A. W. Harris at the annual convocation of the students, held in Fisk hall. It was hailed with shouts and cheers.

Mr. Patten, who is credited with having cleared 2 million dollars—more or less—in the corn market within the last two weeks, was in the audience. According to President Harris, he first received the offer of the gymnasium at a luncheon several days ago.

Northwestern university has been trying for five years to raise funds for a new gymnasium building. The present one was erected in 1872. It is small and poorly lighted. It was said last night that work on the new building will commence as soon as the plans can be drawn and accepted.

DENVER, May 30.—Nine stock motor cars are racing to-day in the first annual Rocky mountain endurance contest over a difficult thirty-two mile course between Sand creek and Brighton, north of this city. The course is to be circled ten times, making a total distance of 320 miles to be traveled by the cars which finish the contest. The start was made at Sand creek at 8 o'clock.

The weather is fine and large crowds have gathered at Sand creek and other points along the course to witness the race. The drivers of the cars entered are Harold Brinker, H. B. Eubank, H. C. Colburn.

STONE FOLLOWED BY GORE

Senator LaFollette Expects to Resume When the Oklahoma Man Talks Himself Out.

WASHINGTON, May 30.—After holding the floor for eighteen and one-half hours and breaking all records for long speeches in the Senate, Senator LaFollette at about 7 o'clock this morning discontinued his speech against the Aldrich-Vreeland currency bill. He yielded to Senator Stone. The Missouri senator, just before addressing the chair, said that he would undertake to speak until late to-night.

STONE QUIT IN 6 1/2 HOURS.

Senator Stone yielded the floor, however, at 2:15 o'clock to Mr. Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma. He had spoken for about six and one-half hours. He was interrupted by a half-hour recess which the Senate took at 1:30 o'clock. Senator Foraker of Ohio had made the point of order against reading on subjects not relating to currency questions. He withdrew this point of order, and Senator Stone yielded the floor.

Senator Gore, in opening his remarks, said that he should promise the Senate that he would not violate the rules by reading to consume time. This reference to his blindness caused a laugh in the Senate and in the galleries. The senator then proceeded to a discussion of the currency bill.

"It is as bad a bill as the limits of human intelligence make possible," he declared. The Oklahoma senator is expected to speak until Senator LaFollette is ready to relieve him.

Senator LaFollette, when he ceased speaking, was not exhausted. His voice was strong and he did not appear or act like a man who was extremely fatigued when he relinquished the floor to Senator Stone. LaFollette slowly and carefully gathered together some of the papers on his desk. Then he left the Senate chamber and went into the marble room.

IS READY TO START AGAIN.

"I could have spoken for hours longer," said the senator, "and I am not on the verge of a breakdown, and if I can get four hours' rest I shall be ready to proceed with my remarks on the currency bill. I have not exhausted my views regarding that measure by any means."

Senator LaFollette said his object in conducting the filibuster was to draw the attention of the country to the evil in the bill and possibly arouse a sentiment that would force its defeat.

Senator LaFollette was driven to his home on Washington heights. He said that he should return to the Senate early this afternoon.

The senator's friends marveled at his capacity for physical endurance. He had started his speech at 12:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He held the floor until exactly 7:03 o'clock this morning. The only relief he secured was a brief rest between roll calls. It requires about seven minutes to call the roll. With the assistance of Senator Gore the Wisconsin senator secured thirty-six roll calls. Then the Republicans forced an application of a "gag" rule which, temporarily at least, ended the point of no quorum and the calling of senators' names.

The Great Wheat State Was a Sea When Platecarpus Dwelled There.

CHICAGO, April 1.—The banks of the Smoky Hill river in Western Kansas, not a great distance from the Colorado line, have yielded to the University of Chicago the most perfect specimen of the fossil remains of the platecarpus abruptus on exhibition anywhere in the world. It is just possible that most readers are unacquainted with this singular creature animal one of the rarest in "captivity," a condition not altogether startling in view of the fact that he lived and thrived about 6 million years ago. This fossil, which was placed on exhibition in the museum of paleontology, is regarded as one of the most valuable possessions of the school.

Prof. Samuel W. Williston found the specimen in the chalk beds of the Smoky Hill last summer and quietly communicated his find to the college and waited for a chance to dig the monster bones from their ancient grave.

According to Prof. Williston his rare

Net Earnings, 62 Per Cent!

In a circular to bond owners the president of the Metropolitan calls attention to the fact that the franchise of the Kansas City Electric Light company is perpetual.

He might have added that the rates were not regulated.

In 1906, the gross earnings of the Electric Light company were $703,000. The net earnings were $436,000.

A business in which 62 per cent of the receipts are net is doing very nicely.

No wonder it fights Beardsley and proper regulation.

FLOODS IN KENTUCKY RIVERS.

Lexington and Other Cities Suffer Damage From High Water.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 1.—The worst flood in years prevails over Central and Eastern Kentucky to-day. Heavy rains, falling almost continually for thirty-six hours, have caused an overflow in all streams, including the Kentucky and Big Sandy. The northern and southern sections of this city are partly submerged and many families have been driven from their homes. The water is four feet deep in some locations.

The Leader's newspaper pressroom is flooded and the press has been put out of commission. Similar conditions prevail in surrounding counties. The town of Farmer, in Rowan county, and Salt Lake and Wyoming in Bath county on the Licking river are in danger.

ROBBERY AT NOON ON MAIN.

W. J. Mullins Identified the Pickpocket To-Day and He Was Fined $50.

A man stopped W. J. Mullins of 1407 Bellefontaine avenue near Thirteenth and Main streets about noon yesterday. After greeting him effusively, the stranger thrust his hand into one of Mr. Mullins' pockets and attempted to take his purse. A man who gave his name as Peter Kennedy was identified as the pickpocket by Mullins in police court this morning.

"I guess I had been drinking and didn't know what I was doing," Kennedy explained.

"Fifty dollars," said Judge Kyle.

A Shower of Fish in Australia.

From the London Globe.

In a communication to the Royal Society of Queensland Douglas Ogilby records the occurrence of a shower of fishes which fell in Brisbane during a severe hailstorm on October 7 last. They were identified as the species known as the trout gudgeon (Kribia adspersus). Such showers of small fish are not unknown in other parts of the world. Sometimes, after a heavy rain they are found swimming about in the pools formed in the surface of the fields. The explanation is that the waters of the pond or lake have been drawn up into the clouds by a whirlwind carrying some of the smaller fry with them. These latter, of course, promptly descend again in the rain.

Giving Him a Pointer.

From the Chicago Tribune.

"Naggs," said Borus, "you've seen that story of mine that's running through one of the magazines. How would you advise me to wind it up? I want to give it a happy ending."

"Put all the characters in the story," answered Naggs, "aboard an excursion steamer for a moonlight ride. Send the boat out to the middle of the lake—"

"Yes?"

"And blow it up!"

A Counterfeiting Case Continued.

The preliminary trial of Ira Fleishman, Mrs. Ethel Fleishman and William Johnson, charged with counterfeiting half dollars, was continued this morning until April 13 by John M. Nichols, United States commissioner. The three defendants were arrested at 1113 Jackson avenue. Fleishman was released on his own bond. Mrs. Fleishman and Johnson are in jail.

THE WATCH BELOW—

MEMORIAL DAY, 1908

Bring blossoms for the sailor dead
Who sleep in ocean graves;
Bring fragrant lilies, pale and pure,
To float upon the waves,
And dewy purple lilacs, too,
From many a cottage home,
And starry daisies, white and gold,
To mingle with the foam.

A hundred years of heroes lie
Beneath the setting brine,
Brave men who yielded up their lives
For Freedom's sake divine.
From Jones, the dashing privateer,
To Evans and his tars,
They died in peace as well as war
To serve the stripes and stars.

Their monuments are coral reefs,
Their shrines the shifting sand;
They're scattered many a fathom deep,
And miles away from land.
No call to quarters, loud and clear,
Across the billows blue
Can summon from their long repose
The navy's silent crew.

So let us to the rolling sea
Consign a wreath to-day,
A tribute to our mariners
Beneath the silver spray.
For while the angry tempests roar
And whip the waves to snow,
The nation never will forget
The gallant watch below.
—Mona Irving in Leslie's Weekly.

GOWNS FRILLY AND FRAGILE

SUMMER FROCKS TOO FRIL TO SURVIVE A TUBBING ONCE A WEEK.

Strange Problems in High Waists, Quaint Draped Effects in Skirts and a Multitude of Diaphanous Trimmings—Opportunity for Extravagance.

From the New York World.
Summer gowns used to be gowns that went into the tub about once a week. They were made by the home dressmaker, and the second best home dressmaker at that.
They were made for rough usage.

Now they are "fashioned so slenderly,
made with such care, taken up tenderly,
frail and so fair."

They never have even a howling acquaintance with the wash tub, for a lin-

LAWN TRIMMED WITH FOUR RUFFLES OF EMBROIDERY.

gerie gown would not condescend to meet the clothes wringer or bow to the wash-board. They don't mangle in the same circles.

Of course, summer gowns for this summer's girl are lovelier than the summer gowns of any other summer girl, and the foundation of all gowns is the silk slip.

A silk slip is absolutely necessary for the princess lingerie gown. It is usually made of white taffeta or of a very good quality of China silk. It must fit absolutely without a flaw. And the decolletage has its edging of lace and ribbon
drawstring exactly like an evening gown.
Where the wearer's arms are not as round as they might be, thin elbow sleeves of mousseline de soie are inserted, but there is always a short undersleeve which hides
the dress shield, made of the same material as the slip. The slip, of course, is made in princess and fastens in the back.

These slips form part of the outfit at the best lingerie shops, where they are made to order from nainsook or in colored materials. The colored slips, however, except for a special gown, are not as useful. These slips replace the petticoat and the corset cover, and over them

SIMPLE AFTERNOON GOWN OF PALE BLUE SILK.

are worn the wonderful creations that make this summer style so alluring.

The chief characteristics of the summer frocks is the increasing high waist line and the draping of the skirt. It seems as if the polonaise were not far distant, for some of the silk and mull models look as if the fulness at the side of the skirt had been gathered in the back, making a regular polonaise effect which we may expect to see popular this autumn.

Linen gowns that have always suggested severity will be trimmed almost beyond recognition.

A pretty model for a walking gown is
of gray linen, the skirt laid in box plaits,
with a yoke of the material finely tucked and bands of linen forming the top of the plaits. Each plait has a wide band of hand embroidery in white running from the waist down to the foot of the dress, making nine bands of embroidery in all.
The blouse is made of tiny tucks and bands of the embroidery on the plain material. A high collar and jabot of Valenciennes lace with a black velvet ribbon bow and black velvet belt; the sleeves, which are one with the material
of the blouse and show no shoulder seam
are wide, with undersleeves of Valenciennes lace. The touch of velvet and the lack of shoulder seam are typical of the present fashions.

A gown of pale blue silk mull has the bottom of the skirt trimmed with four bands of graduated velvet ribbon and panels of embroidered net of the same color, insert and lace medallions. The blouse is also of the net with a chemise of Venetian lace. The girdle, which marks the waist line, is of velvet, and goes up in the back to form the ever necessary high-waisted effect.

All the frocks, except those intended for dancing or walking, or for young girls are made long.

Many of the light cotton and silk voiles show striped and panelled effects in black with a scattering of roses on a white ground. These make up into exquisite summer gowns, as all the long panel effects are very much in vogue. Excepting lace for a gimp and sleeves and a velvet girdle, no other trimming is required for a dress of this kind.

HOW TO GIVE A GARDEN PARTY

WHILE it is warm enough for one's prettiest, sheerest frocks
and still not too warm to be comfortable out of doors in the early afternoon, one can enjoy the garden parties. One need not own a park or a mansion with spacious acres, to give a successful affair at fresco. Merely a part of a city block and a small part at that, provided it can be partly secluded, is sufficient room to hold a hundred of one's dearest friends.

The existence of the Civic Improvement league has fired more than one owner of a back yard or a vacant lot to ambition and experiment in the way of landscape gardens. An arbor here and a pergola there, a clump of shrubbery as a background for a rustic seat, a back fence covered with graceful foliage and bloom, have all contributed to the success of the
out-of-door entertainment.

The sudden shower is the enemy of all affairs of that kind and must be provided for, by arrangements for guests indoors as well as out.

GREENERY FROM THE WOODS.

A garden which has a summer house or pergola and a rustic seat or two, is already an attractive setting for a party.
But if these are absent one can drive to the woods in the early morning and bring home enough boughs of young tress and wild vines to create all the bowers one needs. The boughs, some of them can be stuck in tin cans of water or the cans
may be filled with wet earth in the wood,
and the vines managed in the same way.
Moss will cover the cans or leaves may be used for that purpose. A double swing, always painted green of course, (not red), and a vine covered fence with seats
close to it are frequently temporarily used.
The lemonade or iced tea is served out-of-doors from a punch bowl, which is frequently replenished from the house. If

Are You Overhauling Your Kit?

claret or wines of some kind are not used,
strawberry or cherry juice make good substitutes. Grape juice added to an ordinary lemonade makes an excellent punch.

An especially refreshing drink is ginger ale with lemon juice and mint in it.
The proportion for the glass of ginger ale is the juice of a quarter of a lemon in which a sprig of mint has been soaked for a half hour. Every one concedes this to be a delicious drink, but it would, perhaps, not be very easy to serve at a large garden party.

Refreshments may be served from the house or merely salad and sandwiches from there, and the ices served by pretty girls from a table in the summer house.

SMART GARDEN PARTY GOWNS.

A formal garden party is extremely smart and the handsomest of lingerie
gowns, chiffons and silks and lace robes, princess mulls and the attractive silk or lace coats are worn. Hats of the Charlotte Corday type, those with a wilderness of flowers or heavy with willow plumes are expected to be exhibited.

Less formal affairs are more fun. One hostess invited her guests, numbering about fifty or seventy to come without hats to the back to form the necessary high-waisted effect.

On the table in the pergola, where the punch was served, she had plates of paper bonbons, which were to be pulled at each end and snapped, revealing nicely folded hats and caps of tissue paper. Inside each cap a delicious mint was also found. The guests donned the hats and caps and made a very picturesque assemblage.

A pretty organdie, a white wash linen or even a pretty blouse and skirt is sufficiently dressy for an occasion as informal as this.

TWO VERY ELABORATE TOILETTES.

Here are two very elaborate gowns,
which were worn at a formal garden
fete, which struck me as infinitely better suited to a ball or reception room than to the dragging over a stairway and uncertain green sward.

The first was a hand embroidered bat-tiste and net in a cream white made over a pink chiffon slip. It was the very newest in linen. A thick garland of roses, leaves and forget-me-not sprays started at the elbow, ran up to the shoulder and then across to the bust down one side to the hem of the skirt. This garland followed the hem of the skirt also. The main part of the gown was batiste, having a net stripe which was embroidered in a trellis effect, where the net met the batiste. The sleeves were entirely of net shirred with headings. The embroidered batiste band was sewed to the top between the principal shirrings. A two-inch band fold of pink chiffon finished the foot of the gown. A pale pink coat, made of lace and braid and taffeta silk,
was slipped on over the gown just as the wearer stepped into her motor, and a pink chiffon veil bordered with pink silk fringe was tied over the pink chiffon hat trimmed in pink wisteria and a satin scarf.

The other gown was a two-tone striped apricot chiffon. This gown had a wonderful classic tunic draped edged with a band of flounced chiffon in the same shades, with several darker ones added, the flowers being nasturtiums. A wide scarf of cream flet lace was brought carelessly over the shoulders and hung to the bottom of the gown. A white lace hat with a band of gold and a gorgeous willow plume in apricot and white surmounted
an elaborately coiffed head of black hair.

Many bordered stufts in all materials
and at all prices are made up into handsome garden gowns or simple jumper frocks for informal occasions like the smaller garden fete described above. Linen gowns are elaborately braided, embroidered and tasseled these days and worn in town—on the streets at that. The plain tailored ones are few and far between, but when cut with good lines are always pretty and fresh looking. The elaborate ones made princess with the coat to match are also desirable for garden party frocks, though they lack the airiness which seems desirable for outdoor entertainments.

Nobility.

True worth is in being, not seeming—
In doing each day that goes by
Some little good—in the dreaming
Of great things to do by and by.
For whatever men say in blindness,
And spite of the fancies of youth,
There's nothing so kingly as kindness,
And nothing so royal as truth.

We get back our mete as we measure—
We cannot do wrong and feel right,
Nor can we give pain and feel pleasure,
For justice avenges each slight.

The air for the wing of the sparrow,
The bush for the robin and wren,
But always the path that is narrow
And straight, for the children of men.

'Tis not in the pages of story
The heart of its ills to beguile,
Though he who makes courtship to glory
Gives all that he hath for her smile.
For when from her heights he has won her,
Alas! it is only to prove
That nothing's so sacred as honor,
And nothing so loyal as love!

We cannot make bargains for blisses,
Nor catch them like fishes in nets;
And sometimes the thing our life misses,
Helps more than the thing which it gets.
For good lieth not in pursuing,
Nor gaining of great nor of small,
But just in the doing, and doing
As we would be done by, is all.

Through envy, through malice, through hatred,
Against the world, early and late,
No jot of our courage abating—
Our part is to work and to wait.
And alight is the sting of his trouble
Whose winnings are less than his worth;
For he who is honest is noble,
Whatever his fortunes or birth.

—Alice Cary.

The Death of Dancing Men.

From the Boston Herald.

A publication called the Album asks pathetically: "Dare we prophesy the death of dancing men?" and then replies to its own question by daring, and more than this dares to reason why. "Men want the chaperon revived. They are in private revolt against the decade's custom of setting out between the waltzes in little bowers and screened nooks." Here indeed is a new state of things. Hostesses in a panic because there are no dancing men, and the men in rebellion because they have to sit out a dance! Verily the entertainment of our kind is arduous and perplexing. But why not have your dancing done for you? Here, for instance, are the Earl and Countess of Dudley giving a dinner for Miss Jean Reid and Mr. John Ward with the king and queen as chief guests, and entertaining
them afterwards with a dance by Miss Maud Allen, the latest London sensation.
That's the style of "dinner dance" foreseen when dancing men have all vanished
from the world.

Crowded Out.

From the Washington Evening Star.
"I put myself into my playing," remarked the ardent musician.
"That," replied Miss Cayenne, "may explain why it is sometimes difficult to recognize the composer."

Our Annual First of June Sales Begin Monday!

With Pencil in Hand

With your permission we will offer a suggestion. Here it is. With pen or pencil in hand and a convenient sheet of paper, go over this page and make a list of the items in this annual First-of-June Sale that you want to buy and those you want to inspect with a view to purchasing. Save that list until Monday morning when you will have our page advertisement in The Times, filled to the full with timely and important examples of the low-price-making possibilities of the Store. Then make your list complete from our Store news in The Times. We think we have planned wisely and well for this annual June event. We believe if you do your planning equally well there will be mutual benefit derived. We will make our small dry goods profit on many under-the-market priced purchases—you will add to your salary, income or allowance by appreciable savings on dependable merchandise.

First of June Corset Sale

Monday will open its doors on an uncommonly important sale of Corsets. Corsets that are high grade and in every detail wonderful value, to be closed out in this June First sale. The sale comprises about 57 pieces. A note of just what they are and what to expect:

$2.50 Values for 98c

At this "ridiculous" price you may select lingerie and our special E. B. T. Corsets; not all sizes in all of these; Monday at..... 98c

$7.50 Values for $1.98

These are the famous C. B. a la Spirite Corsets, mostly pink and blue; broken lots, but specially good models; not all sizes to be had; $7.50 values for..... $1.98

NOTICE—$25 for $5

In addition to the above sale we will offer Corsets really worth $25.00 for $5.00. These are models used as samples and being white and slightly mused. Remember, there are only 5 pieces of these and that there are not all sizes in any of the above lots. None sent on approval. Telephone orders not accepted.

Sale of Black Dress Goods

Two particular lines of Black Dress Goods, of which we have duplicates in regular stock, have received reduction orders for the First of June Sale. The result is many interestingly little prices on wanted weights and patterns. Remember these prices only apply to these duplicate pieces. The regular line from stock will not be included. We have divided these into two lots:

Semi-Made Embroidered Robes, $12.98 and $19.75

Waiting for a sale of semi-made embroidered robes to happen along? The season for these garments is in full blossom, but as our buyer purchased them in Switzerland at a saving, we offer you the same good fortune. This sale represents the largest single purchase of Embroidered Robes we ever made. Many dainty patterns, mostly in all white, a few in delicate colors, embroidered on fine batiste. Choosing from this collection is an exceptional opportunity, for the variety is large and buying them as we did direct from Switzerland at such a remarkably low price, we can offer them at:

$25 and $35 Robes, $12.98

$45 and $65 Robes, $19.75

Grand Avenue Floor.

Regular 75c Voile de Lisles for 25c

This is an uncommonly remarkable value in new, fresh, desirable and beautiful goods, but it was a wonderful purchase well illustrating this store's methods of buying new, dependable, desirable merchandise for as little as it can and then turning it over to you, the public, with only a small dry goods profit added to the low cost price. The maker's loss in closing out these exquisite Voile de Lisles to us becomes your gain.

25c

Per Yard
Monday
East End of
Walnut Street
Floor

There will be 39 different patterns from which to choose for charming street dresses, party dresses, evening gowns and so on—stripes, dots, figures and floral designs, in a fabric delightfully sheer and dainty, and with each yard goes a saving of 50c! A feature of the First of June Sales and it merits an early choice Monday as the best patterns will go first—Voile de Lisles regularly valued at 75c per yard, you will find them here Monday at 25c.

59c Sale of Embroideries

Values up to $2.00 per Yard

Our First of June sale of Embroideries will be another evidence of the extraordinary value-offering which has resulted in our European purchases. This is a special purchase our buyer secured in St. Gall, Switzerland, last February. They arrived on this side the end of March and have been in our warehouse awaiting this event.

See the window display of these beautiful Embroideries, which will speak for itself of the wonderful bargains. Fine Swiss Embroidered Flouncing, 16 to 26½ inches wide, 4½ to 6½ yards in each piece in a great variety of handsome patterns. Right at the season when you want just such Embroideries as these we offer these values up to $2 per yard, for..... 59c
Grand Avenue Floor.

New Purchase of Warm Weather Waists

We bought these dainty, midsummer Waists within the last ten days at a specially low price for cash, and they will be ready for your selection Monday. If you have settled it in your mind not to buy any more summer waists do not see these, for their bewitching beauty and little prices will tempt you. Added to the group are up to $2.50 values from regular 98c stock—all at.....

Lingerie Waists made of fine French lawns and batiste, beautifully trimmed with new laces and embroideries, in yokes and good line effects. Others are strictly tailored with the long shirt sleeves, laundered collars and cuffs, and still others are semi-tailored with ¾ sleeves and laundered collars. They are made of fine batiste, of percale, of figured and striped lawns. For Monday's sale, price..... 98c
Third Floor.

Women's Hosiery Prices Drop

In their drop a big piece of the regular figure was chipped off. That's your saving. This cool summer hosiery will quickly melt away under the influence of these prices:

Women's Italian thread Silk Hose, hand embroidered; both black and a fair range of colors, such as helio, tan, Copenhagen, navy and brown. They come in self and colored embroidery, and are new and attractive patterns; $2.50 and $3.00 values $1.98 for.....
